

PRESS RELEASE

YouTube Channel Launched for Church Leaders

The National Parenting Initiative (NPI) has launched a YouTube channel aimed at Church leaders, with a focus on supporting and empowering families.

'Families: A Toolkit for Church Leaders' will release a new interview each week, focused on a different area of family life with tips, advice and wisdom from experts in their fields.

From how to support families facing bereavement, to running an online marriage course, the short interviews will answer a wide range of questions being asked by Church leaders at this time.

Church leader and NPI Chair of Trustees Revd. James Stevenson said, "I, and so many of my colleagues have questions about how we can best support families at this unprecedented time. It's my hope that these videos can equip and encourage church leaders both now and over the coming months."

Please visit and subscribe to the channel here

About The NPI:

The NPI has been working to support and empower families through the local church since 2012, when it was launched by Senior Church leaders and Parenting professionals at HTB church in London.

Through their website, the NPI helps people to find parenting courses running in churches near them, signposts them to great parenting resources and encourages families through blog posts and articles.

Visit the website or the NPI social media platforms to find out more - Instagram, Twitter and Facebook